

Advanced Men's Formula®

Healthy prostate function is a key concern for men of age 35 and older. In fact, prostate problems are one of the most common difficulties that American men encounter today. According to current research, supplementing with effective levels of key ingredients can help support healthy prostate function.*

Nutritional Support for a Healthy Prostate*

A healthy human prostate is slightly larger than a walnut. It surrounds the urethra just below the urinary bladder. To work properly, the prostate needs male hormones, which are responsible for male sex characteristics. The main hormone involved in addressing healthy prostate function is testosterone. As testosterone levels naturally decrease with age, nutritional supplements can serve as a valuable resource in supporting healthy testosterone levels.*

Healthy Urinary Function*

The urinary system is the organ system that produces, stores, and eliminates urine. In humans, its main components include two kidneys, the bladder, and the urethra. The bladder is a hollow, muscular organ that collects urine excreted by the kidneys prior to disposal by urination. The urinary system is a key component of the body's overall detoxification capability. Healthy urinary function allows the body to expel impurities and in turn, function at its optimum level.*

Specific nutrients like Bearberry, Juniper Berry, Lysine, Echinacea and Glycine work together to naturally tone and cleanse the urinary tract, bladder, and kidneys. Cranberry extract, saw palmetto, stinging nettle root, and essential amino acids can help support healthy urinary function within the body. These ingredients, alongside many others, work to support healthy prostate function.*
